Certain unalienable Rights.

Including Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit Of Happiness.

There is meticulous and dimension logic and argument in the first paragraphs of the Declaration Of Independence Of 1776 USA.

Any nationality has the potential and does know, per individual and group, how to establish a new venture of cooperation.

There is the intranational.

There is Thomas Paine's lead-in to Common Sense.

There then 1) is the question on how this is done on the national scale.

There then 2) is also the matter of Rights.

There then 3) is liberation, liberty, and freedom -- true human existence, state, and society -- and the individual.

Nationalities as such must be respected, and this is a fundamental in America, for America, as it set out.

This includes the indigenous -- the American Indian -- that we were to be the other to, 5/3 the number of. (tccc)

This is tccc and The Declaration.

Economics and Representation and Rights are key.

Economics is doSomething by doSomething people, the Free. The Liberated. In Liberty.

Macroeconomics. Microeconomics. Types, categories, and layers; grids.

Make a grid. Economics and Rights. Representation and Rights. Right and rights.

Representation is as we set forth -- and was to be integrated system, each Representative aware of integration, rights, and the nondual. And, things have to factor and in a dimension way. [This is hardly the case now, fragmented.]

Each elector aware of the Representative and each other and enduring concepts, and current-present and recent and future. And these precedent factors.

The state. The people. We the people.

'All men are Created equal.'

Nationality. American Indian. Color. Culture. Integrate, Merit, Equable.

In PA, the equality of rights: For a right, 1) its key, applied to all; 2) its combinatorial representation per category of group, corporation, or individual. This is anti-classist, pro-equable. The equality of rights.

that is,

distributive in the opposite vector -- from the category to the access provided (of the right) per category.

with the fundamental right there, its fundamental.
